School Board Eyes Over-Ride Tax Tonight

At a special meeting of the Carmel Unified School District Board tonight at 7:30 o'clock, Malcolm Millard, attorney for the Carmel Valley Committee, will ask the Carmel board if they would favor Tularcitos and Carmelo school districts' joining the Carmel District.

As soon as the Carmel board's consent is obtained, the Valley Committee is ready to circulate petitions for an election to withdraw from the Monterey School District and join Carmel.

The other item of business at the special meeting is the question of an over-ride tax to carry the anticipated increase in operational expenses of the Carmel School District next year.

Superintendent Stuart Mitchell will report, "According to preliminary estimate, it will be necessary to have an over-ride tax whether or not Carmelo and Tularcitos School Districts join Carmel.

"It will be necessary to make significant increases in the staff next year, even greater than this year," to care for the needs of the Carmel district.

With Tularcitos and Carmelo in the district there will be 35 more high school students from the Valley, now in the eighth grade, plus a large percent of the 61 students now in Monterey High School, which might require some addition in the high school staff over the presently planned increase.

Mr. Mitchell estimates that a three cent tax increase will be involved in the unification of the Valley schools with Carmel, but that an over-ride tax for next year's operational costs will be necessary in any case.

Mr. Millard believes that even with an over-ride tax facing them if they come into the Carmel District, the Valley School District tax payers will benefit financially by withdrawing from Monterey and joining Carmel.

Object of bringing up the issue of an over-ride tax at this time, six months before budget studies would normally begin, is "to let the Valley Schools know what they might be walking into," Mr. Mitchell said.

The over-ride would have to have the approval of a majority of the voters in an election. For the Valley schools to join Carmel there must be an election in the Valley Districts favoring the move and the consent of the Carmel School Board. Carmel citizens do not vote on the Valley-Carmel merger.

Police Dept. Blue Over Prospect Of Owning Skunk Car

Right in the middle of their happy planning of whether it would be pink, blue or yellow, the Carmel Police Department got a jolt this week. Their new police car may have to be black and white.

"I don't want a black and white police car," moaned Chief of Police Clyde Klaumann. Police Commissioner Allen Knight doesn't want a black and white police car either. Nobody does, but this is what has happened:

In Berkeley last week one of the city radar prowl cars arrested a man for a traffic violation and the judge fined him $16 which he paid and then hired a lawyer. The lawyer pointed out that the police car was not painted black and white as specified in the state vehicle code, and the judge handed back the $16.

"We use our cars for other things besides making arrests for traffic violations so that may be an out . . ." Chief Klaumann thought, and composed a letter to the Attorney General. Do we, absolutely, have to have a black and white police car? was the tenor of his letter.

Planning Board Keeps On Asking For Unlimited Site Coverage Control; City Council Sets Hearing Nov. 26

The Carmel Planning Commission asked for the world by the tail last night in their recommendations to the city council on adoption of two ordinances, one giving them set back control, another giving them unlimited control over site coverage. They recommended adoption of both, and rejection of a third that had been sent to them for consideration.

Some of the council members were inclined to look favorably on the recommendations. Some were not so sure.

The council set a public hearing on all three ordinances, plus the modifications and recommendations of the planning commission, for Tuesday, November 26, at 7:30 o'clock.

No objections were presented at the planning commission public hearings on the three ordinances last week. City Clerk Larry Rose told the council, because C-2 property owners preferred to wait until the hearing before the council to express their wishes.

The ordinances as orginally sent by the council to the planning commission are (1) an amendment to the zoning ordinance which would require that 2 percent of any building site be reserved for landscaping and set back, this in addition to the planning commission's requirements for off-street parking, driveways, walks, etc.

(2) A new interim ordinance extending the powers in the existing interim ordinance, to give the planning commission unlimited control over site coverage, as well as the off-street parking and design control they now have.

(3) Renewal of the existing interim ordinance which gives the planning commission control over off-street parking and architectual design but does not give them authority to demand landscape areas, set backs or control over site coverage.

The planning commission recommends that this interim ordinance be not re-enacted.

The commission wants both (1) the amendment to the zoning ordinance which reserves 2 percent of the site for setback and landscaping, and (2 the extended interim ordinance which gives them unlimited control over site coverage, as well as off-street parking and design control.

Asked if these two ordinances were in conflict, City Attorney John Morse said that they were not. The first would be a permanent law, but its effect with the provisions of the second would be to establish minimums. The second gives the planning commission the power to demand what they will over and above the two percent.

"Would this not give the planning commission power to establish their 40-60 site coverage formula?" Councilman James Buffington asked, referring to the planning commission's efforts to get such a provision adopted earlier this year. A proposal which received a flat no from the council.

The answer was yes, the planning commission under (2) the extended interim ordinance, could put in effect such a formula.

New Councilman Everett May, who seemed to favor trusting the planning commission with such powers, pointed out that property owners may appeal planning commission decisions to the council.

"We'd be swamped with appeals," commented Councilman Carl Patnude.

Lawyers For Assn. City To Attend Liquor Hearing

Both the City of Carmel and the Carmel Protective Association will have legal representation at the public hearing called by the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board at Carmel City Hall Tuesday at 10:00 o'clock.

Subject of the hearing is the amended application of Paul E. Chedester and Robert A. Aebersold for transfer of off-sale liquor license to premises on Torres and Sixth Streets.

Their first application for a license to establish a branch of their Pink Elephant Liquor Store here was granted, appealed, sustained, appealed and denied, the final ruling of the ABC Appeals Board sustaining a Carmel Zoning Ordinance which requires that off-sale liquor business must be subordinate to some other business in proposed Pink Elephant locality.

The proprietors have amended their application, stating their intention now to establish a drug store with liquor sales secondary and they have changed the name to Surf and Sand. They maintain that they are now in compliance with the city ordinance. Tuesday's hearing is for the purpose of determining whether or not their plans substantiate this claim.

If the ABC Board is satisfied that the proposed drug and liquor store will be in compliance with the city ordinance, the license to sell liquor will be withheld until the drug store is in operation, if the ABC Board follows its usual course.

Carmel Protective Association's attorney, Elwood Wilson, says he will attend the hearing to scrutinize the evidence the applicants present of their intended compliance with the ordinance. City Attorney John Morse asked the council last night for authorization to

Planning Commission Rejects Schultz New Motel Plans

Yesterday afternoon the Planning Commission denied a building permit to Charles and Dorothy Schultz for an apartment hotel on the former Bettie Greene property at Junipero and Fifth Streets in the C-2 (light industry) zone. Their reason, insufficient provision for off-street parking.

The building, designed by Comstock Associates, could be used either as 11 two bedroom apartments or 22 one-bedroom motel units, with a manager's apartment in addition. James Pruitt, Comstock representative, told the commissioners that the use "would be at the manager's discretion." He said that for the 11 apartments, 130 percent parking was provided in the plans, but on the 22 motel units, 66 and two-thirds percent, as provided in the ordinance governing construction of multiple dwellings. The interim ordinance supercedes the original two-thirds ordinance, and under the interim powers the planning commission has been requiring 100 percent off street parking for the past two years.

The commissioners returned the Schultz plans with the recommendation that 100 percent park-

PADRES WIN CCAL GRID CHAMPIONSHIP

A pair of fighting Carmel High football squads put the clincher on a pair of CCAL B-division football championships last Friday night at Pacific Grove as the Padre junior-varsity clobbered the PG Wavelets, 25 to 6, and Carmel's stubborn varsity blanked the Breaker varsity, 13 to 0. While Coach Fred Rainer's junior-varsity sewed up the preliminary game with two touchdowns in the first quarter, it took the Red & Gray varsity 3½ quarters to get a comfortable lead. With the double win over arch-rival Pacific Grove, both Carmel teams are far enough in front to assure the championship trophy resting in the Padre trophy case for the 1957 season. Carmel has a postponed game with Hollister tomorrow night at the Haybaler stadium but the outcome has no bearing on the league standings.

Explosive running by Ron Faia and the pinpoint passing of Craig Smith and Russ Wise ripped the Pacific Grove defense to shreds in Friday night's preliminary game. Faia, a hard-hitting sophomore halfback, powered to a pair of touchdowns and a Wise-thrown aerial for a third Padre score. Fritz Scheffer picked up Carmel's fourth first-half touchdown when he recovered a Wavelet fumble and ambled 26 yards to pay dirt. All the Padrecito scoring came in the first half as the satisfied Little Padres coasted out the comfortable 25-point lead during the second half of the game. Sturdy defensive line play by Toby Edson, the Wilkin twins, and Van Treat shackled the Wavelet running game and set up game control for the sparkling Padrecito passing attack.

Carmel's 13-0 win in the varsity game was largely a tribute to the hard-working Padre defense which surmounted 7 fumbles and 3 fifteen-yard punts to wipe out the mistakes made by the keyed-up offensive unit. Holding the vaunted Pacific Grove passing and running attack to 58 yards net, the Padre defense shook off the only PG scoring threat by pushing back the Breakers 8 yards in 4 attempts from the 7-yard line. Carmel's gallant defensive line, led by Captain Joe Mason, Al Eaker, Phil Durbrow, Norman Colman, Art Wilkerson, and Alf Anderson, was well backed-up in the secondary by Parker Pollock, John Morse, Dennis Peavey, Pete Phillips, and Ted Smith. The hard-nosed defensive line charge of Al Eaker and Phil Durbrow threw the Pacific Grove backs for numerous losses whenever the Breakers chose to take the overland route.

Bill Hicks, Carmel's big offensive end, came into his own as an accomplished pass receiver by taking a Smith-thrown pass for a 54-yard scoring play. The fast-improving junior flankman shook off several would-be tacklers on his touchdown jaunt which gave the Padres their only score in the first half. Although hampered by 7 fumbles and several damaging penalties, the Padre running attack ate up nearly 300 yards and threatened to score on five different occasions. Carmel got the clinching touchdown in the fourth quarter as Cim Conway's passing moved the Red and Gray to the Pacific Grove 7-yard line where Ted Smith, a fine runner all night, scampered off tackle for the big six. Smith's kick from Conroy's hold was good and the Padres had a 13-0 championship win.

CARMEL FOOTBALL TEAMS PLAY AT HOLLISTER FRIDAY NIGHT

With a pair of undefeated season records as the motivating force, Carmel High's varsity and junior-varsity football squads journey to Hollister tomorrow night for a postponed grid date with the always-tough Haybaler squads. Originally scheduled for October 18th, the games were postponed until the end of the season because of a flu outbreak at the Hollister campus. Always a football power in the B-division of the CCAL, the Haybalers have been plagued with injuries and sickness most of this season but are in tiptop shape for tomorrow night's clash with the Padres and are fresh off a 6-0 Veteran's Day win over arch-rival Gilroy. The Hollister jayvee squad also took the measure of Gilroy, rolling to a convincing 19-6 win over the Pony gridders.

Carmel's varsity will go after the undefeated season with an offensive unit of Bill Hicks and Pat Harney, ends; Hal Gregerson and Fred Nelson, tackles; Captain Joe Mason and Mal Burdis, guards; Parker Pollock, center; Ted Smith and Tim O'Shea, halfbacks; Andy Gray, fullback; and Cim Conway, quarterback. The rugged Padre defensive unit will be manned by Art Wilkerson and Alf Anderson, ends; Norm Colman and Phil Durbrow, tackles; Joe Mason and Al Eaker, guards; John Morse and Steve Gann, linebackers; Dennis Peavey and Pete Phillips, halfbacks, and Ted Smith, safety.

The Little Padres will try for win number seven with Frank Wallace and Jamie Holman, ends; Chris and John Wilkin, tackles; Van Treat and Doug McClurg, guards; Harrison Hilbert, center; Craig Smith, quarterback; Chips Wood and Ron Faia, halfbacks; and Mike Marquard, fullback.

Friday night's lightweight game will get underway at 6:00 o'clock with the varsity tilt slated for an 8:00 o'clock kickoff.

PEBBLE BEACH RACES BIG SUCCESS ON NEW TRACK

Pete Lovely, 81 year old Seattle, Washington, foreign car dealer, roared to victory in the featured Del Monte Cup 100-mile race at the 8th Annual Pebble Beach National Championship Road Races last weekend at Laguna Seca.

The blond and boyish winner was at the wheel of a brilliant red 2-litre Ferrari Testa Rosa. He clocked the 53 laps in 1:15.21 for an average speed of about 82 mph.

Second place was captured by John Von Neumann, a veteran driver from Hollywood, in a 2.1 litre Ferrari Testa Rosa. Paul O'Shea from New Jersey placed third in a Mercedes 300SL roadster.

Some 30,000 spectators lined the hills of the beautiful course to watch the race program, which was sponsored this year for the first time by the Sports Car Racing Association of the Monterey Peninsula.

The Pebble Beach Trophy Race, also of 100 miles, was won by Sacramento's Sammy Weiss who led from the start in a Porsche Spyder. Jack McAfee came in second in the same type machine, while Jack Piggott, Bellingham, Washington, was third. The latter piloted a Lotus MK11.

The new course justified advance publicity as far as both fans and drivers were concerned. It proved a fine test of cars and driver skills, and spectators on the hills were able to watch the cars for about two-thirds of the way around the circuit.

Receipts will be in excess of $55,000. As this paper goes to press, banks are still counting them. Also, the number of customers were still being totaled. That the affair was an overwhelming success, however, is unquestionable.

SCRAMP President Lou Gold commented that the races represented the biggest cooperative effort on the part of the whole Peninsula that he'd ever witnessed.

STATE LEAGUE SPEAKER

Mrs. Robert Zurbach, state president of the League of Women Voters, will speak to the local league at a salad luncheon at 12:30 o'clock on Monday in the Carmel Valley Community Center.

Mrs. Zurbach has just returned from the League's regional conference in Dallas, Texas, and will report on discussions at these meetings concerned with population shift and the current trend from urban to suburban living. She will also give a resume of League of Women Voters activities throughout the state.

All members are asked to bring a guest. Further information may be obtained by telephoning Mrs. Alla DeHart at FR 2-2392.

E. Schweninger

Ernest Schweninger died unexpectedly on Monday evening of a heart attack while watching television in his home. He was born in San Jose on September 9, 1892. In 1906 he came to live in Carmel when his parents, friends of Frank Devendorf, developer of Carmel, came here to open the first bakery in the village.

Mr. Schweninger received his elementary schooling in Carmel and was the first Carmel boy to attend Monterey High School. He continued his education at the University of California where he was affiliated with Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity. During these years he worked in the grocery store which his parents established on Ocean Avenue and took an active part in the early life of the village.

He served in the Navy in World War I, and on his return to Carmel, after hostilities ended, was a founder and charter member of Carmel American Legion Post 512. He entered the real estate business at this time and became one of Carmel's best known citizens taking part in theatricals and playing in Abalone League baseball games.

He is survived by his wife Mrs. Carol Schweninger of Carmel; and two stepsons, Norvell W. Yerkes of San Mateo and William D. Yerkes Jr. of Mexico City. His brother, George Schweninger died two years ago.

Private funeral services were held on Tuesday afternoon in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea followed by inurnment in El Carmelo Cemetery. Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Friends wishing to make contributions in memory of Mr. Schweninger are asked to do so in the form of donations to the Rehabilitation Fund of Carmel Post 518, American Legion, or to the Carmel Chapter of the American Red Cross.

Local People Take Honors At Concours

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde N. Young of Pebble Beach were among the winners in last Saturday's Concours D' Elegance at Pebble Beach Lodge. In the European sports car ($4,500-$10,000) category, Evelyn and Clyde Young's custom-made Dual Ghia, with an Italian body and D-500 motor, took first place. The Young's have owned their russo rubiano convertible for a year. It is one of only sixty-three such cars in existence. It has been clocked at 124 miles an hour, and it was shown last weekend at Pebble Beach for the first time.

In the European passenger car category (over $5,000) James Doud's 1958 Bentley sedan, made by Rolls Royce, was a winner, Specially designed and imported from England the handsome motor is used daily by Mr. Doud as his personal car.

Among the most unusual cars shown was the English-built Zephyr, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Rollo Payne. An ivory convertible, constructed by Ford in England, the sports model has Belgian glass, six cylinders, and (so far as the Paynes know) is the only model of its kind in Monterey County. It was imported for them in 1956.

Other local winners at the Concours were: Taylor Pillsbury, Pebble Beach, 1934 Packard Coupe (Pre-War American Cars category) and Alton Walker, Pebble Beach, 1914 Hupmobile (Vintage Cars, prior to 1915).

George Fraley of Carmel exhibited his 1957 Austin Healey, which was the first model in this area of the fast sports car. Mr. Fraley has clocked his car at 106 miles. It displays racing stripes and boasts special modifications including an Imperial exhaust system.

An enthusiastic crowd of about 8,000 moved through the rows of cars before the lodge enjoying stimulating autumn weather and the mild sun. Numerous out-of-town visitors and celebrities were among the throngs who heard Lucius Beebe of Nevada, Larry Rose, Carmel City Clerk, and Carmel architect Glenn Kearns name the winners among the one hundred cars entered in the Concours.

Cypress Bowl Now In Full Operation

The new Cypress Bowl's 24 sleek bowling alleys with fully automatic Brunswick pinsetters are now in operation. Monterey's newest recreation spot is equipped for the whole family's enjoyment with a free day nursery with its own sunlit patio and professional baby sitter for youngest members. Free group instruction is available for prospective bowlers by appointment. For those who feel the need of a little "brushing up," a professional is on hand to teach finer points of the game.

The Racoon Room is an entertainingly decorated breakfast and short order restaurant at the Bowl, operating round the clock, while the Cypress Room has a king sized bar, cocktail lounge, a firelit restaurant for epicures, and a cleverly contrived piano bar where Lee Sherman plays sophisticated syncopations.

Cypress Bowl is a handsome example of modern architecture at its functional best designed by Robert R. Jones, A.I.A. of Carmel.

House Of Seven Seas Is In New Location

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Grimes have established their shop, House of Seven Seas, in a new location on Dolores Street, near Seventh Avenue. Previously, the shop operated in the Court of The Golden Bough. The removal of the Leo Tanous-Robert Little realty and insurance offices to Ocean Avenue gave Olive and Bruce Grimes the opportunity to secure the Dolores premises. The interior has been extensively remodeled and redecorated for the display and sale of "gifts from far-away places," imports from many lands, the specialty of House of Seven Seas.

Mr. and Mrs. Grimes purchased their shop two years ago. In their more spacious premises they plan to add many new lines of merchandise. They live in Carmel on Dolores Street near Eleventh Avenue with their son, John Vail, a sophomore at Carmel High.

CAR ACCIDENT

Eighteen members of the Carmel Fire Department answered a still alarm at 2:24 o'clock on Tuesday morning when Stanley Ewig was pinned in his car on Dolores Street between Eleventh and Twelfth Avenues. Mr. Ewing's car apparently first sideswiped a parked automobile belonging to Eugene Marosan then skidded about 100 feet up an embankment before overturning sideways against a tree with a branch jamming shut the uppermost door. Mr. Ewig was trapped in the vehicle until freed by the fire department volunteers. His arm was skinned in the accident.

At 6:00 o'clock on Monday evening Sandra C. Smith, 18, received minor injuries when the station wagon she was driving rolled over several times on the Seventeen Mile Drive north of Bird Rock Road, with extensive damage to the car.

Pages From Gay's Diary

Carmelite Gay Kuster shares some of her year abroad with her friends here in the following pages from her diary. She'll be back in Carmel next month.

FEBRUARY 17th

On the Paris - Irun - Hendaye train bound for St. Jean de Luz two signs are worth recording. In the community wash-room at the end of our car one of them read, "To get the water push the handle indifferently, to the right or left." The other headed the dinner menu in the dining car, announcing proudly, "Composition of the Repast."

St. Jean de Luz, in France, but in the corner of the angle that forms the bay of Biscay, at the base of the Pyrennees, is a much more interesting little harbor town than appears at first glance. Still under the pall of winter storms, its shuttered houses, hotels and shops slept in neat, noncommittal rows, only a shop sign or a random half-torn poster proclaiming an "Evenement Extraordinaire" indicated the excitement and color that transforms it in the tourist season. We wandered down narrow alleyways whose smooth-worn stones were splashed with rain from overhanging eaves. It was Sunday evening, and, in response to a deep-toned church bell, people moved toward the entrance, holding their black shawls over their heads against the wind. No doubt in the summertime this old Gothic Church competed with the grandstand in the town square for importance, but now it held its own, alone. The tiny harbor seemed out of proportion to the great size of the boats that crowded it. Red, deep green and cobalt, with generous curves, high sterns and bows, their reflections quivered in the rain-pelted water. An alehouse nearby had the only open doorway, so in we went for a glass of cheer against the windy road back to our hotel. The rich, rough speech of Basque fishermen filled the low-ceilinged room, their faces brown under tight-fitting berets. They smiled a greeting and bowed as we left; a strange sight we must have been, tourists, in such a month. Along the sea road plane trees had recently undergone crew-cuts, also those in the courtyard of the Hotel Maitagarrita. We were the only guests except for an Englishman buried in his London Times, yet they gave us a room on the top floor facing the bay, where our shuttered windows rattled all night until the call came at 6:15 to rouse us from sleep.

FEBRUARY 18th, "THE TALGO"

Two hours, but only a few miles later, the business of French and Spanish customs, behind us, we were in Spain, seated . . lounging is a better word . . in an astonishing train; a commodious, streamlined creation of French design and Philadelphia construction. This runs from Irun, on the Spanish border, to Madrid. Its decor of light grays and greens was simplicity itself, and being tube-shaped, there were no overhead racks. Coats were hung in a wardrobe at one end of the long car . . . the longest car we'd ever seen. A steward who anticipated one's every wish, and although no linguist, was a master of "mime," brought us breakfast on aluminum trays, slotted to steady the cups. This Franco-American wonder, the "Talgo," was a source of great pride to the trainmen and, as we found later, to all Spain.

By now we were climbing and weaving through the snow-mantled Pyrennees. Wine-coloured or henna roofs on little white houses with incredibly small windows; planted hillsides whose red-brown furrows showed through the powdered snow; chimney-smoke rising in straight blue spires from the valley below, for the storm was over . . . these and other pictures went by in news-reel tempo. In the winding alleys of little towns, between ochre buildings, burros carried packs, urged by the prodding of small boys' whips. Goats, of the variegated tones of fields and houses, munched stubble along the roads between patches of snow. And so quiet was this speeding train that we could hear the goat-bells in the mountain air. Churches now came into view, their towers and buttresses typically Spanish. Climbing again, we reached a plateau ringed with mountains. Indeed we might have been in New Mexico except for stiff rows of leafless poplars . . . sentinels against the sky.

At a wayside station beret- capped, corduroy-coated villagers stood and looked at this electric marvel, their purple, crimson or green scarves tucked into coat collars, their hands pocketed or mittened against the mountain cold. Higher and higher we climbed into snow-blanketed evergreen country; then suddenly down, in a sweeping slope, toward Vitoria and Burgoes.

Here the farming pattern resumed, but the soil looked hopeless. In a wide, arid landscape we saw something worthy of Edwin Markham's pen. A donkey harnessed to a wooden cart near a

C. S. Lecturer Says Human Needs Are Met By Spiritual Means

There is no legitimate human need that God does not supply, Arthur P. Wuth of Denver, Colorado, told an audience here November 7.

Mr. Wuth is currently on nationwide tour as a member of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship. He spoke under the auspices of First Church of Christ, Scientist, Carmel, in the church edifice, Monte Verde Street near Sixth, where he was introduced by Mrs. Adele Knight, second reader in the church.

"There is today an almost universal yearning for peace of mind, for love and understanding," the lecturer declared.

All too common, he said, is the feeling of loneliness, of not being wanted, of being out of place or nonessential. "Conflict in human relationships, maladjustment at work, at home and in society are all too prevalent," he noted.

Mr. Wuth defined the human need as freedom from wrong influences, as a practical understanding of spiritual values with which to resolve the problems of disease, frustration and insecurity.

"The answer to the human need is found," he said, "not in material things, but in the cultivation of those values which are regarded as spiritual, values which have their source exclusively in God, and which we can comprehend only as we understand Him and apply that understanding in daily living."

Pages From Gay's Diary . . .

man with a tiny spade . . . the only life in miles and miles. And this peasant was spooning manure from the cart, arranging it in rows. A pathetic effort to enrich the land.

Sheep were the only other things in this lonely terrain, and the shepherds, cloaked in the blankets the color of their sheep, were discernible only by the difference in their shapes . . . the man a triangle above the rounded mounds that were his flock.

A farm rushes by us and its barnyard is full of pink hens! Yes, really, the color of the diluted red ink that Marcia paints on her "tired" ballet shoes. And Ted sees a violently pink pig, which I miss. What is this flamboyant beauty treatment the live-stock get? I only know it's charming against the gray donkeys and the piled hay.

Now ancient Burgos comes into view, but passes as soon, for this long green "worm" in which we are streaking across the plains does not stop until it reaches Madrid. However, our steward comes running in, and, with enthusiasm tinged with awe, points to the ancient spires of the great cathedral. Built during the reign of Beatrice of Swabia and good king Ferdinand (known as Ferdinand the Saint), who united Castile and Leon, it stands like a gray mediaeval ghost against a hill. It was built by the German architect John of Cologne and supervised by Maurice, Bishop of Burgos (an Englishman?) who came to Spain from Germany in 1219 with Beatrice when she married Ferdinand. All we could see were its towers, but these were startling indeed, rising in Gothic grace above the Spanish city at its feet. Morton, in "A Stranger in Spain," says there is a Teutonic look about these cusped towers. "Unlike anything else in Spain," he says, "they look like the masts of old ships as drawn by monks." Later, in defending Burgos against those who consider it "fussy and over-elaborate" (and I would probably be one of these), he points out that this feeling passes as you begin to appreciate the architecture; then you make discoveries which lead to others, for, true to its function in the Middle Ages, it is "a wonderful example of a temple, a treasure chest, a museum and a library, designed for those who could not read." Reading this, my mind flew back to a lecture on the Cathedrals of England I'd heard in London's City Literary Institute, off Drury Lane, a month ago, and especially on their stained-glass windows. These windows, it dawned on me during the evening, with their florid and sensational chronicling of biblical events, were actually cartoons, and most effective ones, for a vast public in a non-reading age.

Valladolid, a large city, hurried by us next, and after this the bare landscape became peopled all at once with strange trees. Evergreens whose foliage, all clustered at the top, looked like umbrellas on long stalks through which one saw the angry winter sky.

Harriet Daley

Word was received in Carmel this week of the death of Mrs. Harriet Daley last month in Washington, D.C. Mrs. Daley was the first telephone operator to be employed at the Capitol in Washington and came to Carmel to live in 1945 after 47 years service. When Mrs. Daley began work at the Capitol she ran a small switchboard outside the Senate chamber. When she retired this board had increased to 60 times the size of the original. Mrs. Daley returned to Washington six years ago.

She is survived by her daughter Mrs. Elsie Lewis, formerly of Carmel, now living in Washington.

Writer Les Gorn Moves To Highlands

Carmel Highlands residents of two weeks standing are Mr. and Mrs. Lester Gorn and their three year old son Rick who have come here from Hollywood. They are living in the Williams house on Cypress Way. Mr. Gorn is at present working on revisions of his first book tentatively titled The Anglo-Saxons to be published by Sagamore Press of New York.

The book tells the story of the English speaking volunteers who in 1948 went to the state of Israel to fight in the Israeli-Arab war. Mr. Gorn was commander of this group of several thousand men from Great Britain, the United States, South Africa, Canada, New Zealand and Australia.

Music On The Peninsula

BY MARY LINDSAY-OLIVER

Gilbert Boyer gave his recital in Sunset Auditorium to a good sized audience that seemed to appreciate everything he played. It is no easy task to get enough time for performance while teaching and organizing, but Mr. Boyer, who has the gift of self-projection, has managed admirably. His program of Bach, Chopin, Villa-Lobos and Ravel was one to test any pianist both technically and musically. He accomplished the technical demands with strength and dexterity. The Bach Fantasie in C minor with which he opened, suited his temperament and was excellently performed. It is seldom we can hear the whole twelve Chopin Etudes in succession and it was a fine accomplishment to do this. Many are brilliant and were brilliantly played. Nothing but praise is due for such an offering, and Boyer deserves our sincere thanks for giving it.

After intermission, the Villa-Lobos Three Maries, founded on a story of three Brazilian little girl friends who continue their association as stars, was a charming and lightly played picture, followed by a successful presentation of the Ravel Sonatina in a variety of tonal phrases that interestingly expressed Ravel. Four recalls brought added performance of Debussy, Scarlatti and Villa-Lobos pieces. The whole concert being a credit to the Carmel artist.

There are several local artists who ought to be heard and whom we hope will come forward as many do not know the quality of all in our midst, and the Symphony Association is willing to give the best an opportunity to play with the orchestra, than which nothing can better help an artist or the musical development of the community.

Rehearsals of the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra have started well for the next concert on December 15 and 16 which will be devoted to three works only, a Dance Overture by the contemporary American Paul Creston, the Tschaikowsky Fifth Symphony, and the Chopin Concerto in F minor to be played by William Marcellos, an Eastern pianist who has recently made a startling success under management of the Columbia Artists of New York City. The well-known beautiful Chopin work should be a strong draw.

There are those who will be glad to know that Francesco Mazzi, concert master, and Robert Grant of our symphony, who come from the San Francisco Symphony, are teaching violin and cello at the studio of Lindsay-Oliver School of Music at Lincoln and Seventh every Monday.

Soloists Wanted For Verdi Requiem

The Monterey Peninsula Civic Chorus, Gilbert Boyer, conductor, has announced that local singers will have a chance to compete for the solo parts in the Verdi Requiem. This great choral work is to be presented by the chorus in the Sunset School auditorium in Carmel, on February 2, with chorus of a hundred, full orchestra accompaniment, and four solo voices.

The solo parts, for soprano, mezzo-soprano, tenor, and bass, are demanding and rewarding, and offer a challenge to competent and experienced singers.

Vocalists wishing to try out for any of these solo parts are advised to get in touch with Mrs. Arlene Torri at FR 2-1513. She is chairman of the executive committee of the chorus, and will arrange an appointment for a solo audition. Because of the scope of the Verdi Requiem, it is desired to have the soloists selected by the end of November.

Conservation On The March

A Weekly Column by
C. Edward Graves,
Western Representative,
National Parks Association

THE ARMY AND CONSERVATION

The October-December issue of the National Parks Magazine is just off the press. It is the first issue under the editorship of Bruce Kilgore, a California boy who took his Bachelor's degree in wildlife conservation under Dr. Starker Leopold at the University of California at Berkeley and his Master's degree in Journalism at the University of Oklahoma. He has done a fine job of upholding the high standards set by the retiring editor, Devereux Butcher.

Mr. Kilgore during his residence in Oklahoma had a fine opportunity to observe at first hand the machinations of the Army in their efforts to gain control of the Wichita Mountains Wildlife Refuge for an artillery range in connection with Fort Sill. In the new magazine he has included in an article entitled, The Army at Wichita, an account of the newest developments in that controversy between wildlife conservationists and the military.

Over a year ago I wrote a column about the state of the controversy at that time. It had become a celebrated dispute between the Army and all the conservation groups of the country. Statements made by the Army representatives at congressional hearings on the subject were characterized by conservationists who had made first-hand observations of the terrain involved as being contrary to the facts. Finally in February of this year a so-called agreement was made between the Secretary of the Interior and the Under-Secretary of the Army which was supposed to end the controversy in favor of the conservationists.

In spite of the agreement Major General T. E. de Shazo, Fort Sill commandant, made a speech before the Rotary Club in Oklahoma City in July in which he indicated that the Army would renew its attempt to extend the Fort Sill artillery range into Wichita Mountains Wildlife Refuge. This touched off new protests by the conservationists, as the Army continued to hedge on its previous agreements. Finally on September 12 the Department of the Interior issued a release stating that the controversy had been satisfactorily solved.

On the opposite page in the National Parks Magazine appears an article on The Army at White Sands. It seems that here in White Sands National Monument in south-central New Mexico, one of the most beautiful units of our national park system, we have another example of insidious Army encroachment. Dating as far back as 1947 permission has been given to the Army for certain special facilities in connection with its guided missile range. In 1950 a major concession was made which provided for intermittent technical tests over the Monument.

Now the Department of the Interior is studying an application from the Department of Defense for permission to use more of the Monument. The argument is being advanced that millions of dollars have already been spent here and that defense needs justify the continuation of spending. This is the old foot-in-the-door technique.

Congressman Clair Engle of California, chairman of the very important House Committee on the Interior and Insular Affairs, has recently said: "We must not forget that the human beings who make up our military departments exhibit the same foibles and fallibilities as the human beings who make up our non-military departments. I shudder to think of the consequences to our public lands in time of war if carte-blanche indulgence is given defense withdrawal requests in time of peace."

ALBEE'S ROLLIGON IN LIFE

Carmel resident William Albee's rolligon is one of the new American inventions featured in Life magazine this week. The Rolligon is seen rolling over huge fallen logs on its elongated balloon like wheels. Mr. Albee got the idea for the machine, which is manufactured locally, from seeing Eskimos transport weighty articles over difficult terrain on inflated seal skins during the years he lived in Alaska and other parts of the far North.

Candida, A Delightful Play, Is Well Produced At The Circle Theatre

BY CAROLYN ELSTOB

That Charles Thomas selected George Bernard Shaw's Candida for his final production in the Golden Bough Circle Theatre proves him, in this reviewer's mind, a bit of a master in psychology, an artist keeping strictly to the rule for exits—"Always leave them wanting more."

Candida, which opened in a crowded and critical house last Friday night, has about everything that the theatre-goer looks for. It is a brilliant comedy. When G.B.S. wrote it, fifty odd years ago, he dipped his facile pen into his own compound of love, feminine superiority of mind, and his own special brand of sardonic wit. Controversial from its first performance, the prestige of the play has mounted with the years, often listed as one of the playwright's best, certainly one of his favorites. Each of the six characters demands of the actor delineation of the utmost skill. It is paced with lightening changes of mood, and the closing of each act, including the final curtain, leaves the audience intrigued and speculative.

Mr. Thomas' star must have been in the ascendency when he selected his cast.

In the title role Peg Minor, stately, serene and beautiful, portrays the "mother-wife" with rare finesse and understanding. (In his biography of G.B.S. Hesketh Pearson quotes Shaw's letter to Ellen Terry, "I have written the Mother Play") but Candida is more than the maternal wife, she is also the goddess symbolizing all romantic love to the young poet. Miss Minor, long experienced behind the footlights, and a favorite with Peninsula audiences, well earned the spontaneous applause awarded her on opening night.

In the interpretation of Morrell, the socialistic, completely introverted cleric, Errol Allan gives a superb performance. During his life-time Shaw, as critic, denounced bitterly the many and varied presentations of Candida's husband. "He was a sensible man, infected with the disease of eloquence" wrote Shaw of his own creation. Through the years numerous famed but unwary producers have grossly misinterpreted the role 'making of a man whose main characteristic was tempered justice,' an irascible ninny. In his biography St. John Irvine wrote: "He (G.B.S.) himself saw that he had turned the tables on Ibsen, by showing that it was the man, not the woman, who was the Doll in the house . . ." Morrell as played by Erroll Allan is in the true Shavian tradition, "spoiled from the cradle" but nevertheless worthy of audience sympathy and affection.

With sustained intensity and vitality Ramon Wilson, in his portrayal of the poet Marchbanks, interprets the bewilderment of soul-searching idealistic youth with tenderness and nuance. Only a highly sensitive and talented actor would exceed in this role, almost pure poetry. We found Mr. Wilson qualified.

Gertrude Chappell as the virginal and vinegary Proserpine, plays her gushing comedy to the hilt. Encased in Victorian virtues and frustrations she nevertheless gets her longings for love across. Miss Chappell is a polished actress, her Prosy has a super gloss.

To Winston Elstob, a young Londoner who now insists after ten months here that he is a Carmelite 'forever,' went applause and laughter for his Lexy the very earnest young curate, always painstakingly doing his best, who reaches the heights of politely staggering suavity—due to a bout of champagne.

And, awarded hearty laughs from a delightful audience, Bob Paplow as Burgess the cockney father of Candida was, to quote comment overheard at intermission, "a riot." Bombastic, low-brow, lovable, Mr. Paplow's Burgess was flawless. His mastery of one of the most difficult of all dialects, within sound of Bow Bells cockney, was labelled "perfect" by several born-Londoners in the audience.

The costuming by Rhoda Johnson, assisted by Gertrude Chappell was a triumph in period authenticity. In the case of Miss Minor's gowns special honors should go to Rhoda as a designer, they were exquisite and did much to emphasize the essential elegance of Candida. And what woman in the audience did not envy Prosy her polished beaver hat, that must have taken some attic searching.

Hair styling by Henry, Hairstylist; sets by Charles Thomas and props by Ruth Allan; master carpenter, Church Chappell; stage manager, Richard Bailey, and ever faithful efficient Polly Bowhay, "everything" as production assistant.

Candida, to run weekends for the next five weeks, must be a must if for you "the play is the thing," supported by fine acting and brilliant direction. Charles Thomas declares that this is his last production in the Circle, we hope that he means—"only for a while, a little while."

REALTORS DONATE $50 TO MYLAR MEMORIAL

Members of the Carmel Board of Realtors voted to donate $50 to the Fred Mylar Memorial Fund at their meeting on November 8 according to president Leo Tanous.

The Mylar Fund is being used by the Carmel Chapter of the American Red Cross to buy new hospital equipment, beds, wheel chairs, etc., for local persons who need them. Mr. Mylar, former Carmel postmaster, was particularly interested in providing home equipment for sick persons in the chapter area.

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

Ruth Galvin Thornburg, Librarian

When interested people get together and work together, things get done. We at the library are happy that citizens of the town took up the matter of the library walks. We believe that it demonstrates that beauty in Carmel is more important than the saving of a relatively small amount of money. To all those who contributed money toward the project we give our thanks. Did you know that some money came from visitors to Carmel who said that they loved the library here and wanted to contribute toward the added attraction of beautiful walks.

You all know why the walks had to be changed. The stone walks were so rough and uneven that people fell down, injuring knees and clothing. We were one jump ahead of a lawsuit a great deal of the time. In wet weather it was almost painful to watch the slow progress of patrons coming in to the library. So the new smoother walks will be a blessing. You may have noticed that we have new sidewalk lights set down low to make night progress more sure. The fact that all steps have been eliminated made the walks lower than the garden level and the old stone was used to back up the sides of the walkways. I do hope you noticed what a good job the city workers did with this. It is all going to be a wonderful improvement for the library. Isn't it great to live and work in Carmel?

This month marks the two hundredth anniversary of the birth of William Blake, the great English poet, painter and engraver. The Huntington Library in San Marino is featuring an exhibit of his work all during the month. In our own quiet way, we too feature his work because we have on permanent display an original title page from his The Book of Job, done in 1825. It is framed and hanging in the alcove directly across from the circulation desk in the main hall. It was a gift to the library from Miss Jean Kellogg, and is one of the things in which we take great pride.

The week of November 18-22 is Book Week, during which time we shall concentrate on service to children. We shall have some films on the use of the library which Mrs. Heisinger will show at Sunset School. Some classes from the two grade schools will visit the library, and some will stay at home and the library will come to them in the person of the Children's Librarian.

With us books are still basic, so before we run out of room here, I want to mention a few new ones worth calling to your attention. Take first The Reefs of Taprobane which is the latest from a man known for his science fiction novels, Arthur Clarke. This book is non-fiction and recounts Clarke's adventures when he went exploring underwater along the coasts of Ceylon. The pictures which illustrate the book were taken by a man named Mike Wilson.

Will Durant has written a series of books under the general title The Story of Civilization. Part six has just appeared with the specific title The Reformation; a History of European Civilization from Wyclif to Calvin, 1300-1564. This is a large and thoughtful book, one which the devoted student of history will want to consume completely. For others it will give valuable service when they want to check on any certain period included in the scope of the book.

There are a lot more good ones, and no more space to tell about them. Come in and see them.

Join Foreign Studies Board

Dr. Harriet Hayes, formerly on the faculty of Columbia University, and writer Larry Barreto, both of Carmel, and Dr. Morse Cartwright of Rancho Rio Vista, for a quarter of a century general secretary of the American Association of Adult Education, became members of the board of the Monterey Institute of Foreign Studies at the quarterly meeting of the group last month. Stanley Ewig, treasurer, reported a surplus from last summer's seminar to be used for the fourth session of the institute this summer in Crespi Hall at Carmel Mission. M. Gaspard Weiss' title was changed from director to president due to recognition given the institute by colleges and universities.

Sydney Tice Wed Saturday

The altar of Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church in Carmel Valley was decorated with white chrysanthemums, stock, and red berries arranged in greenery with two standards of the same flowers and leaves at the altar rail when Sydney Tice was married to Lieutenant Michael F. West by Father Ignatius Loughran on Saturday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock.

The bride was given in marriage by her father Reuben Tice and wore a white street length coat dress with buttons extending down the front from the high flaring Chinese collar. A shoulder length circular veil fell from her small pillbox hat of the same suede-like material as her gown and she carried a tear-drop spray bouquet of white stephanotis centered by three white butterfly orchids. Her shoes matched her dress.

Hazel Tice, freshman at the University of California in Santa Barbara, was her sister's attendant in an electric blue jersey dress with a pearl collar, matching blue shoes, and a half crown of white flowers in her hair.

Mike Friedenbach of Berkeley was best man for the groom.

The reception following the ceremony was held in the Carmel Valley home of the bride's father where bouquets of flowers, similar to those used in the church, arranged with greenery, were placed about the rooms. The three tiered wedding cake was placed on a white covered table before a backdrop of the greenery and flowers with two tall white candles in silver holders at each side.

After the reception the bride and groom left for an undisclosed honeymoon destination and on their return will live in the Jack's Peak area for the next year while the groom is stationed at Fort Ord.

Out of town guests at the wedding included two uncles and aunts of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Harry McGawan of Napa and Mr. and Mrs. J. Dust and their family of Belmont and the bride's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Richard R. Tice of Santa Barbara.

Helping the bridal couple receive their guests were the bride's two older sisters Mrs. William L. Smith and Mrs. George Curby.

Twenty-five photographic prints by Carmel Highlands' nationally known photographer Edward Weston are on display in the Monterey Peninsula College Library.

Chief Klaumann Sees President

Carmel Chief of Police Clyde Klaumann flew back to Carmel on Saturday after a week in Washington, D.C., attending the first retraining course for 900 FBI graduates since 1949. The graduate refresher course ran concurrently with the last week of schooling for first time trainees, and President Eisenhower addressed both groups at graduation ceremonies on Friday. Dr. Norman Vincent Peale also spoke to the men.

That evening at the annual FBI dance in the Sheraton-Park Hotel, when Lawrence Welk's orchestra played, the band leader, as usual, danced with Alice, a member of his group, then Alice, as usual, tagged one of the men in attendance for a dance. Friday night she chose Chief Klaumann for her partner.

"I danced with Alice in front of 1700 people," Chief Klaumann told the Pine Cone, with only a little friendly razzing from the members of his force listening to his report.

Judy Lee Murphy Born

Mr. and Mrs. Merle Colgate Murphy are parents of their first child, a little girl, Judy Lee, born at the Peninsula Community Hospital on November 6. She weighed six pounds, one half ounce at birth. Her grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. George Murphy of Tacoma, Washington, and Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Crane of Santa Rosa. Mrs. Crane is in Carmel helping Mrs. Murphy take care of Judy and expects to be here for another ten days.

Judy's father is a contractor and her mother was formerly dental hygienist for the Monterey County school system.

"I think I can see already where Judy's first two teeth are going to come through," she says.

Varied Organ Program

The members of the Monterey County Chapter of the Hammond Organ Society and their guests met recently at the home of Ed and Irene Graham of Carmel.

The musicale, preceded by a short business agenda and followed by refreshments, was opened by seven year old Susan Thienpondt who played Brahms' Lullaby, the Marine's Hymn and accompanied the singing of Vivien, her younger sister. Then Sharon Kimball also presented two selections on the Hammond Spinet. Playing of the Chord Organ was demonstrated by Mike Flynn. Highlights of the program were the performances of two soldiers from Fort Ord. Choir director Kenneth Wilson played several chorale preludes by Karg-Elert and Peeters as well as Bach's Prelude and Fugue in E minor. In conclusion Robert Herman, baritone, sang four selections to Mr. Wilson's piano accompaniment.

The activities of the local Hammond Organ Society in this calendar year will reach their climax in a public concert by Porter Heaps on December 9 in Salinas.

Dr. Shutes' Book Out

Lincoln's Emotional Life is the title of the book by Dr. Milton H. Shutes of Carmel recently published by Dorrance and Company of Philadelphia. In the volume Dr. Shutes describes and evaluates the emotional behavior of President Lincoln. This is the third book written about Lincoln by Dr. Shutes whose hobby was studying Lincoln's life during his years of active medical practice.

Before retiring to Carmel and devoting full time to his hobby, Dr. Shutes was for 32 years head of the eye and ear department of Cowell Memorial Hospital at the University of California in Berkeley and for 27 years head of the Samuel Merritt Hospital eye and ear department in Oakland.

Chitwood Son Home

There is rejoicing in the Chitwood family. After a year in Europe as a civilian electronics engineer for the U. S. Air Force, John Chitwood, son of Mayor John Chitwood and Mrs. Chitwood, arrived home Friday night. Though his headquarters were in Weisbaden and Frankfort, Young John's work took him to Athens and London, Paris, even Madrid, where he tried to see Leslie Emery, then touring Europe, but found that he had gone to Barcelona.

He was in Munich for the Oktoberfest, and went away "with my share of steins." He explained that the Munich people expect about 25,000 steins to be sold for souvenirs, and 25,000 to vanish. He didn't say whether his were the souvenir or vanishing variety. He came home via Iceland, and will spend a month in Carmel on vacation until he decides what he wants to do next. What he'd like to do is go live in Copenhagen forever. "They are the most friendly people in Europe, the food is excellent and there are more beautiful girls there than anywhere else in the world — an unbeatable combination."

Nesbitts Hear The Pipers Skirl

The stirring band, 28 pipers and drums corps of the Black Watch Highland Regiment thrilled John, Priscilla and Penny Nesbitt on Saturday evening in San Francisco's Civic Auditorium. Joining them for the performance was Mrs. Nesbitt's son Brian Casiday, who left Carmel first, at 6:00 o'clock in the morning, with the Carmel High School band to play trumpet in Band Day at the University of California in Berkeley. Added to the music was the kilt-swinging performance of eight Highland dancers who came from Scotland with the Black Watch.

John Nesbitt's father was a Scotsman and John wanted his family to share in the musical heritage of his ancestry.

Business Assn. Hears Steinberger

"Yours is one of the most important functions in the United States," Harry Steinberger, business education instructor at Monterey Peninsula College, told members of the Carmel Business Association at their dinner meeting in Highlands Inn last Thursday evening. He was referring to the assistance business people can give students in the distribution field of supervised work education programs such as he is presently conducting at the college. Mark Raggett introduced the speaker. August Nieto presided.

During the business meeting the association voted to buy a hospital bed and mattress for the Fred Mylar Memorial Fund of the Carmel Chapter of the American Red Cross. Mrs. Gladys McCloud reported that although Carmel merchants were not ready for regular Thursday evening openings some stores would be open at night during the Christmas season.

Walt Pilot reported $600 prize money available for the Christmas decoration contest this year and that judges will place a sticker on store windows after judging. Mrs. Hazel Mohler, new secretary, was introduced to the membership and a letter of appreciation was authorized to be sent to Mrs. Helen Wilson, former secretary of the Business Association.

ADDRESSES CIVIC GROUP

Mr. Harry G. Lachmund, authority on tree pathology, was the guest speaker Monday night for the society for the conservation and preservation of Carmel-by-the-Sea.

Mr. Lachmund told the audience that there are some 20 different viruses, diseases and pests that attack our trees; and that many of the trees could be saved if they received the right treatment. That the cost of successfully treating a tree would be about the same as it now costs the city to have a dead one removed. That it takes about 35 years for a newly planted sapling to approach the mature growth of the pines and oaks that now adorn our town.

Mr. Lachmund is seeking employment by the City of Carmel on a yearly basis.

unless you're in the market to buy a new home. This warning we offer to anyone who loves fine features such as: a separate, mahogany panelled dining room; roomy kitchen with built-in GE range, oven, dishwasher, disposal plus a fan, light and hood over the range.

No, if you are satisfied with your present abode, and don't want to move, just drive by, but don't go inside. We will not be responsible for family arguments.

In SOUTH CARMEL HILLS, Lincoln's new home is open for your admiration every day of the week. 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays, 1 to 5 p.m. other days. Drive South on Highway 1, turn left second street past Carmel High School stop-light. Several other individual contractors have homes that are ready for you to see in this new and growing area too, so plan soon to drive through, and see for yourself what we have to offer.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

The scientific basis of immortality will be brought out at Christian Science services Sunday.

Scriptural selections to be read from the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Mortals and Immortals" include the following (Proverbs 12:28): "In the way of righteousness is life; and in the pathway thereof there is no death."

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will be used the following (267:3-5): "The offspring of God start not from matter or ephemeral dust. They are in and of Spirit, divine Mind, and so forever continue."

The Golden Text is from II Corinthians (5:17) "If any man be in Christ, he is a new creature: old things are passed away: behold, all things are become new."

CAT UNDER THE ORANGE TREE

The weeds akimbo about her, the fence askew, appall the shimmer of her immaculate poise.
The branches' rowdy shadows poke helter-skelter over the glittering Siamese licking her paw.

Wild bird-song down from the fragrance pelted the civilized silence crouched below. Golden treasure heaps ajumble in the top boughs as she flicks a bloody feather away purring.

—GROVE BECKER.

JAPANESE GARDEN

Green-glazed the massive one
Sits in an alcove sheltered by laveered,
Dark-tasselled pine whose sparse growth
Is traced, is oddly windowed by lazulite sky.

Archil wistaria sprays lean their thin-creeping vine
Over his unsuspecting shoulders
With clusters of sun-rilled blossoms
Crushing their fragile, bruised perfumes
Wind-driven against the harsh mantel of metal.

Legs crossed under,
Hands still poised, he sits in light and shadow
Of green and sun, a curio to the wise . . .
White cherry trees snow their articulate bounty,
Petal, and petal around this pretentious shrine
Before his dim, unseeing eyes!
And he hears not the white-throated quails' exotic sound
As they timbrel diaphanous bells among crooked,
Ebony branch of cherry trees.

In green-ferned of pond, gold-fish leap—
Gold mouths on quick suddenness of variegated water-flies.
The water lilies etch full-swung in rose-ivory
Cool-trunked on green plush-running mats
Of the smoke-blue, immaculate water.
The Tea Garden glass-bells crinkle with cubic-ices
Among turquoise vases and rare-tinted wares,
But the great Buddha nonchalantly sits
In profound silence,
In aloof meditation of metal.

—VERA LA CLAUSTRA.

THE OWNER IS ANXIOUS . . .

We have a very pleasant, well-located, 3-bedroom, 1½-bath house that has a good view of the hills. Other features include a large lot, central heat, oak floors, panelled living and dining rooms, formica in kitchen and bathrooms; some wall-to-wall carpeting, drapes, and a fairly new stove go with the house. The price is definitely right (a little under $24,000) and if you're a good credit risk, the terms are wide open.

nations. How are we going to meet our mutual problems?" was the keynote of the conference, she said.

Miss Larson found the addresses given by Walter P. Reuther and Christian A. Herter, Under Secretary of State, outstanding, but most impressive, Madam Pandit's closing speech, from which she quoted the following as worthy of serious thought by our own people:

"Democracy has many seeds in many lands and the seeds of destruction lies in conformity. We can't always expect that there is only one way of doing things. There is more than one way of solving human problems. Democracy is a growing, not a stereotype thing."

The delegates were royally entertained, Miss Larson said. They were guests at the premiere of the Emperor Norton Ballet, and at a banquet at the Veterans building, where they were entertained by college students from southern California doing Indonesian dances.

Legion Auxiliary District Meeting

The Twenty-Eighth District meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary will be held in Carmel on December 8 in the Masonic Temple starting at 10:00 o'clock in the morning with luncheon served in the American Legion Hall at noon.

At the meeting of the Carmel Legion Auxiliary unit on Tuesday evening Mrs. Lillis Harris Irvine was obligated as a new member. Mrs. Jack Shannon, child welfare chairman, reported two cases of veterans' children needing assistance and money for this purpose was allocated from the Auxiliary's Poppy Fund.

Elaine Shelton

Mrs. Elaine Hunter Shelton, 45, died yesterday a short time after she had been taken to a local hospital by the Red Cross ambulance operated by the Carmel Fire Department. Cause of death was, presumably, a cerebral hemorrhage, although the coroner's report is not yet complete.

Mrs. Hunter was born in Elko, Nevada, on April 1, 1912, and had lived in Carmel for about five years making her home at Santa Fe and Second Streets. She was employed as bookkeeper for the Monterey Herald.

Survivors are a daughter, Mrs. Ronyce Erb of Carmel; a son, Corporal Lyle G. Shelton, USMC, Santa Ana; a brother, John N. Hunter of Oakland; and a grandson, Robert Earl Erb Jr., of Carmel.

Funeral services are on Saturday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock in All Saints' Episcopal Church with the Reverend Angus Dun Jr. officiating. Inurnment will be in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea Crematorium in Pacific Grove.

Mission Mortuary is in charge of arrangements.

TO THE TOWNSPEOPLE OF CARMEL

The student body of Carmel High School wishes to express its regret and offer an apology for the misbehavior of some of the students during the Carnival Parade and Rally on Oct. 18. The students who were involved in the incident were brought before student council and were severely reprimanded. May we again apologize for their poor conduct and hope that you will not think less of the student body because of the action of a few thoughtless members.

We would also like to take this opportunity to thank the community for its support of our Carnival.

Sincerely yours,
Terry Shames,
Student Body Secretary.

Audubon Field Trip

Members of the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society will observe birds on the Monterey Peninsula during their field trip on Saturday. Those attending are to meet at 9:00 o'clock in the morning at the students' parking lot at the Hopkins Marine Station in Pacific Grove.

HIGH FIDELITY SALONS

☆ On the Mezzanine of our present location in the MILLARD BUILDING, Carmel

☆ At The Lodge PEBBLE BEACH (opening soon)

Featuring the world's finest sound systems by AMPEX.

In front of your Ampex Home Music System, like the family above, you'll know the magnificent realism of true Stereophonic Sound.

You'll have the thrilling sensation of being present at the actual performance . . . you'll hear the sound of each instrument of the orchestra in its proper audio perspective, just as it was "heard" by the recording microphones.

Ampex Home Music Systems—twelve superbly styled models—were designed by the same skilled engineers who pioneered magnetic tape recording in the U. S. and who created the amazing Videotape recorder that brings you improved TV pictures.

Choose the Ampex that best fits your decorating scheme. Whichever model you select, you'll know the everlasting satisfaction of having the best there is in music and styling . . . a focal point of entertainment in your home for years to come.
